ABSTRACT

The selected bibliography on "La Raza" in the Midwest and Great Lakes States lists dissertations, theses, periodical articles, State publications, hearing transcripts, and Federal reports published between 1924-73. Focusing on labor trends, particularly in the migrant field, the bibliography also covers religion, culture, language differences, health, educational trends, population trends, and general living conditions for Spanish speaking people in this area of the United States. The 84 citations are generally concerned with Mexican Americans, but Puerto Ricans and other Spanish language groups are included. Five additional sources and 13 Spanish newspapers, magazines, and periodicals in the Midwest are given at the end of the document. (K.I)
